

Edexcel GCSE Music (Spec: 1MU0)

What will I learn?

You will explore music through performing, composing and the study of eight set works. You will analyse your own and other composers' music under a variety of elements of music including texture, structure, melody, harmony, instrumentation, etc.

How is the course structured?

There are 3 units in the GCSE specification: Unit 1 Performance; Unit 2 Composition; Unit 3 Appraising. In unit 1 – Performance, you will perform both a solo and an ensemble performance, in unit 2 – Composition, you will compose two pieces of music and in Unit 3 – Appraising you will study 8 set works from four areas of study AOS1 instrumental Music from 1700-1820, AOS2 Vocal Music, AOS3 Music for Stage and Screen and AOS4 Fusions, and also be asked to compare one set work with an unfamiliar piece of music.

How will I study?

You performing through the practical aspect of performing in lessons, however students will benefit from having individual instrumental/vocal lessons outside class. In composition you will learn how basic structures work, how to write a simple melody and apply harmony to it, and also how to create musical variety in texture, tonality, dynamics and a number of other elements. The set works necessitate a more academic approach, allied with the chance to experience the set works practically where possible.
